

ABSTRACT

The amount of residual carbon and hydroxyl groups in a synthetic quartz powder made by a wet process is reduced by baking the synthetic quartz powder in a low pressure atmosphere. Quartz glass crucibles made using the synthetic quartz powder have low bubble contents, and are particularly suited for growing single crystals.

I:\atty\Cpu\209545us-pa.wpd